Mobilizing Women to Lead, One at a Time

WINGS helped me unleash the leader in me....

Shon Green
WINGS Mentee

I am defined by a desire to live a worthy life. I worked relentlessly to put myself through college, earned a PhD in cancer biology, and applied myself academically, professionally, and personally to prove myself a successful scientist. A couple of years ago I realized that something was blocking me from achieving my full potential.

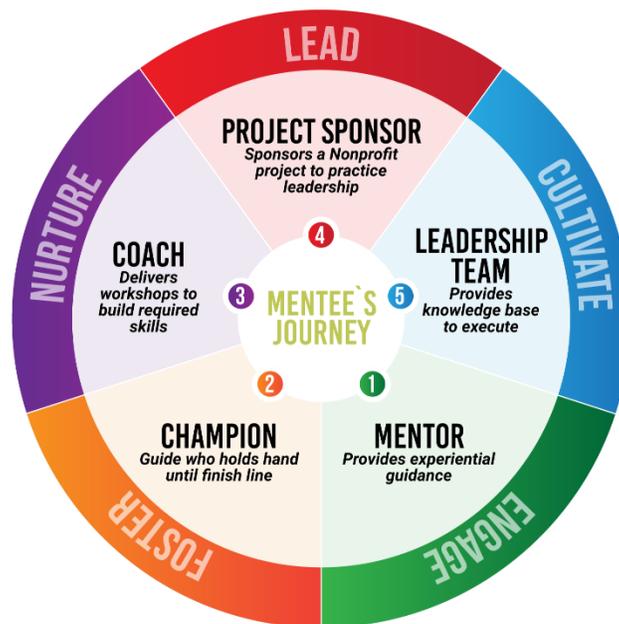

That is when I joined WINGS for Growth. The WINGS program provides a roadmap for self-actualization through a 10-month journey. With every step, the mentor, WINGS team, coaches and fellow mentees provide guidance, support and the tools to establish a perspective that goes beyond immediate challenges. WINGS helped me understand myself better, uncover my weaknesses, celebrate my strengths, and gave me practical tools to apply professionally and personally to gain confidence in my leadership and accelerate my growth.

Since then I become a director at a non-profit research institute where I lead a team of researchers to translate basic discoveries into clinical applications in cell therapy. The experience of leadership has given me a clearer vision of what fulfills me. My career is focused on developing cancer therapeutics, but my real passion is the development of people. I am now returning to WINGS to give back, encourage other women, help extract their potential and foster this cycle of growth, fulfillment, and contribution back to the community.

Your Support will enable WINGS to help more women like Shon

WINGS High-Touch Creates a “Fail-Safe” Environment...

Results lead to a multiplying effect, many helping hands go up....

- Mentees internalize their values and potential
- Mentees feel confident about their next big opportunity

- One more hand goes to help women requiring assistance
- Many more women are motivated to join the force of change

Don't Miss out to be Part of this Unstoppable Mission

It is paramount to build women leaders. With your help WINGS can continue to provide support to women, women like your daughters, sisters, friends, neighbors. That means more women can gain confidence and skills that go beyond the next promotion and develop a mindset that launches them on a path to be a leader they want to be and help uplift others in need.

To make the program available to every single woman whose hand is raised, first to help herself and then to help many, many others
